

EDITORIAL WEBINARS

TOPIC	WORKING TITLE	DETAILS
Curriculum	Building A Curriculum Where the Political Rubber Meets the Academic Road	From Black Lives Matter to Charlottesville, educators have had to grapple with the impact of real-life events nationwide and how to dissect them with students in schools. In this webinar, we'll explore how school district leaders can help your students and teachers make sense of it all.
Equity & School Choice	How Districts Can Foster Equity in School Choice	Chief Innovation Officer of San Antonio Independent School District, and new member of the Class of 2018 Leaders To Learn From, Mohammed Choudhury has taken on these issues in Dallas and San Antonio. Learn from this ardent “design for diversity” advocate how to help students access high-quality schools despite discouraging socioeconomic considerations.
ESSA	ESSA on the Runway: The New Law Rolls Out	Education Week’s lead policy reporter Alyson Klein outlines the political dance between federal and state authorities, dives into the details of the law, and offers examples of how policymakers at the state and local level are coping with the challenges.
ESSA	ESSA: Show Us the Data	State policy reporter Daarel Burnette II digs into the technical and messaging challenges this poses for administrators and the kinds of support available to help them along the way.
Facilities & Technology	K-12 School Planning: What to do When Your Leadership Team is on the Hot Seat	Together with our guests, our reporter will take a close look at one district going through the school planning process and those who find themselves on the hot seat.
Facilities & Technology	Saving School Budgets With Unique Approaches to Facilities Management	Join our reporter and one innovative district where they are working now to make K-12 schools cost-efficient, learning centers—where teachers can gain unique instructional opportunities and their students can absorb educational lessons that motivate and engage.
Growth Mindset	How Can We Leverage the Research Behind Growth Mindset to Impact Schools in Responsible Ways	What does new research tell us about the developments in the area of learning mindsets and what it means for student growth? Leading researchers will shed light on new findings.
Leaders to Learn From	Leadership in Districtwide Improvement	In this webinar, we'll look more deeply at school improvement and how it can change the academic, social, and emotional trajectory for all students. Our guest, Emmanuel Caulk, has restored confidence in the school system he leads with a sweeping improvement plan that has focused heavily on fostering broad community support and zeroing in on the needs of students who struggle the most.
Leaders to Learn From	Leadership in Elevating Student Voice	Joe Meloche, Leaders To Learn From 2018, has made student opinion and feedback a central part of his strategy to get the best performance out of his already high-flying suburban district. In this webinar, he'll explore those districtwide results.
Leaders to Learn From	Leadership in Equity for All Students	Equity is a term thrown around a lot these days and while the buzz word has many meanings to many people, grounding in action is pivotal for districtwide success. In this webinar Susanna Cordova, 2018 Leaders To Learn From, will share her strategies on how you can impact academic achievement using equity as your lodestar.
Personalized Learning	What the Research Says About Personalized Learning in the Classroom	In this webinar, a lead researcher and a school district leader who has developed a districtwide approach to personalized learning will summarize and compare key findings, dig in on the practical challenges that district and school leaders can expect, and offer tips on how to approach personalized-learning implementation.
Schools & the Workforce	How Can K-12 Schools Build a Diverse Teacher Workforce for the Students and Schools of the Future?	In this webinar, we will look at the importance of having a diverse teaching workforce, what teacher preparation programs and K-12 schools are doing to change the staffing equation, what schools can do attract high-quality teachers of all backgrounds, and how to support and retain diverse teachers.
Special Education	Why Do Spec Ed Teachers Really Leave?	What can school district and building-level administrators do to stem the flow of Spec Ed teachers exiting the profession?
STEM	Growing STEM Teachers	Join us for a deeper look at how STEM academies can become pipelines between regional universities and districts, how support from the New Teacher Center can make a difference, and how participants in these academies receive a ton of support as they go through the licensure process.
Teacher PD	Micro-credentialing and the Teacher Recertification Puzzle	Tennessee is one of a handful of states experimenting with “microcredentials”— earned by teachers who master specific components of instruction — within their continuing education systems.
Teacher PD	Aligning PD Mandates with Teacher Learning Plans	All states require teachers to take classes or credits to maintain a license, but they're not always targeted at school priorities, or even teachers' needs. Education Week will discuss the successes, challenges, and growing pains of this new approach.
Technology	Tech Counts 2018: What Does EdTech Leadership Look Like Within a District?	In this webinar, we'll take a hard look at the challenges principals run into working with district leadership.